To whom it may concern,

Thank you for MySciLearn.com and the software/program they have developed to teach kids how to read, comprehend, and learn to love reading. I know my child loves the program.

I heard and learned about this program through my boss at work, Wanda Leidig. She is a director at Learning Legacies in San Diego. Upon discussing the difficulties and problems that I was having with my daughter, Breanna in the areas of reading and comprehension, she invited us to come to the center so that my daughter can be assessed and then try the program out. She loved it. She also loved the new friends she made and the trip to the library.

That first day was in June or July. Moving forward, my child has shown tremendous change not only in her grades but also in her love for books. It has only been three to four months, but her first progress report from school shows that her previous grade of a "D" average is now a "C." When we read together, I can hear and see that she is more secure and fluid with her reading and is comprehending what she is reading better than she ever was. I don't know what we would do without MySciLearn. It's that little push she needed for her to get where she needed to be.

Thank you Wanda and thank you, Miss Hope for having a place like Learning Legacies and for the kindness and generosity you have given to me and my daughter. I appreciate all that you have done for Breanna and I hope we can continue to use this awesome program!

Sincerely,
Evette Viana
